

This manual has been developed to inform professionals of agreed processes between agencies to support young people in their transition between compulsory education and their chosen destination.

The contents of this manual were developed in consultation with participating agencies in the Whittlesea Youth Commitment (WYC) project and refer to processes and materials available to each young person who resided or attended secondary college in the City of Whittlesea. Information contained in this manual may be useful to other communities contemplating the implementation of a Youth Commitment.

What is the Whittlesea Youth Commitment?

During 1999 a collaborative partnership involving education, employment, training providers, government, and community agencies evolved in the City of Whittlesea. It was a response to the immediate situation of young people not in full-time education or employment, and to plan a more integrated set of approaches to Whittlesea's young people in the future.

The participating organisations came together "believing that by doing so the sum total of their efforts will be greater than if they had continued to work separately, to provide a common framework, a clear focus and a collective means of developing the life skills and active citizenship of each young person in Whittlesea". To achieve this a strategy that builds and sustains a skilled and stable workforce was required.

As a result the Whittlesea Youth Commitment, an official partnership agreement emerged and was signed in March 2000. Partners in the Commitment include:

- 8 Secondary Colleges
- Northern Melbourne Institute of TAFE
- RMIT
- Whittlesea Business Link, representing more than 80 local employers
- Individual businesses including Bostik Australia, Tieman Industries, Graphics Unlimited and Anderson Multiplex
- Inner Northern Group Training
- City of Whittlesea
- Victorian Department of Education, Employment & Training
- Federal Department of Employment, Workplace Relations & Small Business
- Northern Area Consultative Committee
- Centrelink
- 3 Job Network brokers
- Kildonan Child and Family Services

1. Supporting school leavers in transition

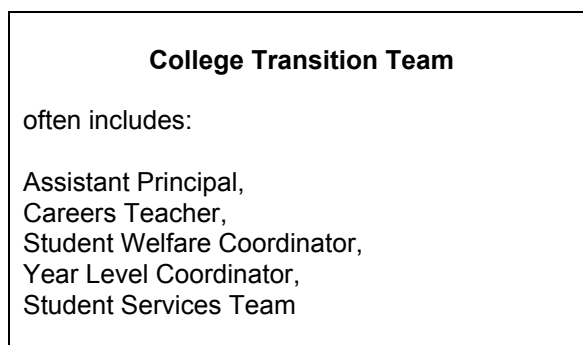

Schools are the key organisation working with young people, at least until the compulsory school leaving age, but once a student leaves the school's role generally ends.

Who is there to assist in a successful transition?

In reviewing the elements of a good system to support each young person, it is clear that much is there already. There are secondary colleges, TAFE, Universities, Adult Community Education, employers, employment providers, the Jobs Pathways Programme, Centrelink, community support agencies, youth workers and local government support staff.

1.1 College Transition Teams

Every young person leaving secondary education is required to exit via the established procedures of each secondary college, which often involves obtaining signatures from several members of staff. This group of people is referred to as the College Transition Team.

1.2 Transition Brokers

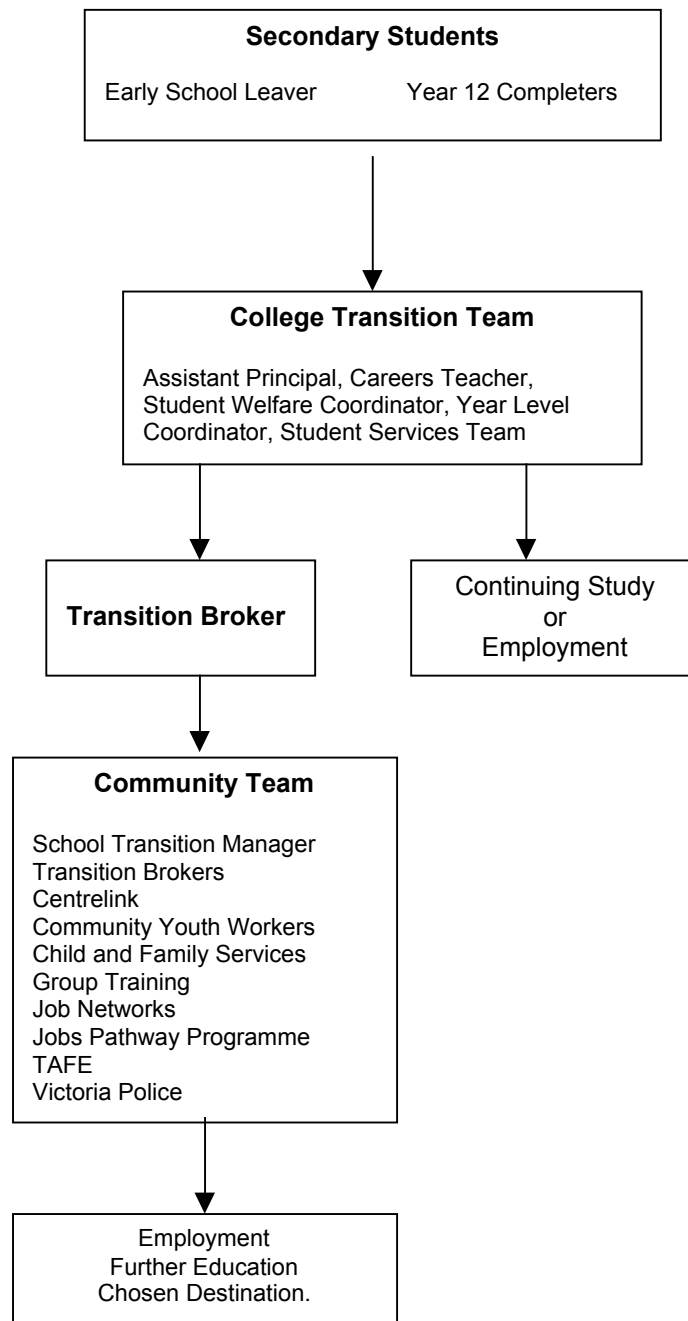

These new positions work with young people, schools and services participating in the Whittlesea Youth Commitment. In particular, brokers relate to students, staff and the communities of eight colleges located within the City of Whittlesea: Epping Secondary College, Lalor SC, Lalor North SC, Mill Park SC (2 campuses), Peter Lalor SC, St Monica's College, Thomastown SC and Whittlesea SC.

The positions involve working with students who are deemed 'at risk' of leaving school early and provide case management, using a brokerage approach among local service providers. The brokers provide individual support to maintain young people in further education, training or employment. The brokers directly follow up individuals, particularly those in Years 9, 10 and 11, and act as a 'bridge' between the colleges and existing agencies such as Jobs Pathway Programme and Job Network organisations.

1.3 Community Team

The Collective efforts to develop a Youth Commitment in the City of Whittlesea forged new relationships between providers which can be expressed as a commitment to a Community Team. This team comprises at least one staff member from each WYC agency and meets regularly.

Community Team operational relationships

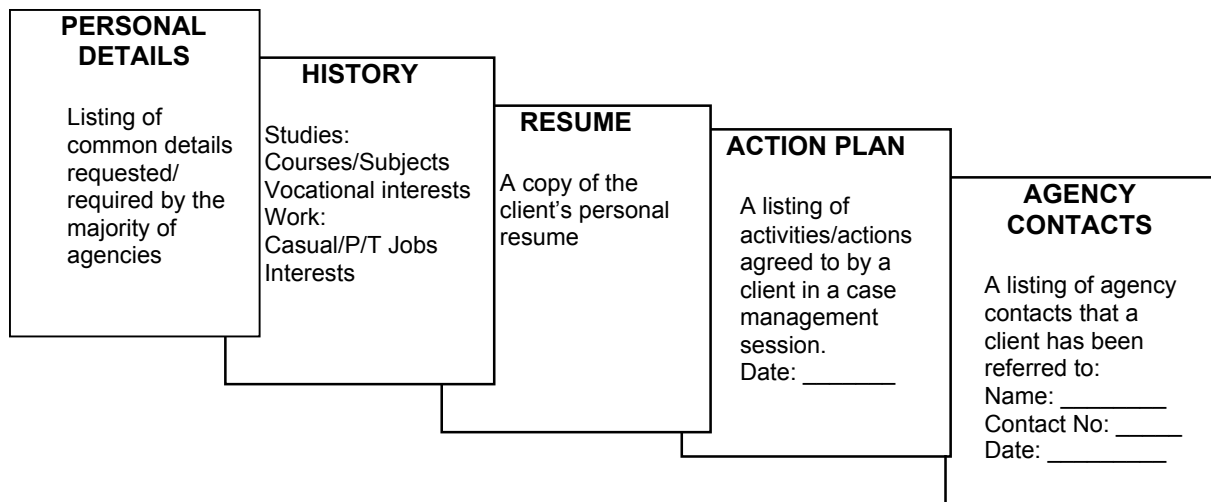

2. Education and Employment Passport

The Education and Employment Passport (Appendix A) is designed to assist young people to access a Community Team of local agencies committed to supporting them in their transition from school to employment.

2.1 Contents of the Education and Employment Passport

Each Passport contains the following information

Secondary Colleges generally provide some form for counselling for students as part of the exit process prior to them leaving the school, and this is considered to be the most appropriate time for a young person to be given their copy of the Passport.

In this counselling phase, the young person is encouraged to commence formulating their Action Plan and the person assisting in mapping out a series of actions to be followed, effectively becomes the Transition Manager of that young person.

Through meetings of the Community Team it is relatively easy to determine whether the young person is following the course of action that was established. If this has not occurred then the Transition Manager at the college is expected to follow-up the student to determine whether assistance/support is required.

When a young person presents at any of the agencies involved in the Community Team the question will be asked with respect to their Passport. If the young person does not have a passport then one is issued and the person who counselled them becomes their Transition Manager.

As a young person progresses through their action plan it is possible for the role of Transition Manager to transfer from one agency to another.

Additional information that might be included in the passport folder includes:

- Certificates
- Reports (School)
- References
- Selected Portfolio materials
- School Leavers Guide to Employment, Training and Support Services in the City of Whittlesea

Young People are to be encouraged to use the Passport and share the information that it contains with agencies and professionals that are able to assist them make the transition between compulsory education and their chosen destination.

2.3.2 Agencies other than secondary colleges

Determine eligibility of the client for a Passport

- Do they reside in the City of Whittlesea?
- Did they attend school in the City of Whittlesea?
- Were they issued with a Passport?

✓ Yes request to see the Passport and provide additional information if necessary to complete the personal details sheet of the client.

✗ No provide the client with a Passport and outline the benefits of sharing its contents with other agencies and professionals.

Additional Passports should not be re-issued to young people that have either misplaced or elected not to produce them upon request.

2.4 Documenting action to be taken

Professionals working with young people are asked to assist the client to develop an action plan. The plan is then worked through step by step until a desired outcome is achieved.

Example:

*A concise statement of the action agreed to in discussion
between the young person and Transition Manager/Agency
Contact*

*Insert date when the outlined action
was agreed to*

3. Tracking youth who leave school

Tracking young people through the transition process between compulsory education and adult life ensures that they are supported in their endeavors and provides a process where no one requiring assistance falls through the cracks.

Secondary colleges recognise that information relating to the destinations of students is invaluable and vital information to be considered in reviewing 'Charter Goals and Priorities', to ensure that the needs of their community are met.

Colleges also recognise that having up-to-date information enables them to:

- Develop profiles of courses and institutions that students are accepted into for tertiary or further education
- Develop profiles of employers with whom students gain employment, to determine employment and training opportunities available to exiting school students
- Ensure that the curriculum provides students with an understanding of work readiness and informs them of what employers look for when hiring school leavers
- Develop a data base of employers and employment opportunities that are available in the region, to be used in providing students with relevant careers information
- Determine that appropriate curriculum is delivered to meet the post secondary education needs of students
- Identify students who require further information and support in obtaining employment, further education or training.

Signatories to the Spirit of Cooperation Agreement at the commencement of 2000, committed to the privacy principles outlined in Appendix E.

Permission to share information about individual progress is authorised by the student/client signing the agreement at the bottom of 'How to use the Education and Employment Passport' (Appendix B)

Unless a school leaver/client agrees to agencies sharing information with other organisations identified in their action plan, information regarding their progress must remain confidential.

To ensure that common data is collected from all secondary colleges and agencies, the following proformas have been developed (Appendix F)

- Student Enrolment/Destinations
- Transition Broker Tracking Proforma
- Community Team Tracking Proforma A
- Community Team Tracking Proforma B

3.1 Action Flow Chart

This Process provides a safety net for young people in transition between compulsory education and their chosen destination

- Feedback between agencies simply refers to the destinations of young people only. Comments are not to include issues of confidentiality
- The cycle of referral and feedback is repeated for each agency involved in the process.

3.2 Data collection & recording

NIECAP currently provides the operational back-up to the members and management group of the WYC. It is the fulcrum to the broad coalition of stakeholders, an entity independent of the stakeholders that can aggregate data for the purpose of internal monitoring.

For this reason all data is forwarded to NIECAP so that it can be analysed and reported to the stakeholders in a meaningful way.

3.2.1 College data

Secondary Colleges have agreed to provide data about student enrolments and destinations twice per annum, February 28 and June 30, of each year.

The proforma used for reporting this information is contained in Appendix F, (Sheet 1).

3.2.2 Transition Brokers

Transition brokers have a key role in the collection of data about potential early school leavers, as they provide the necessary intensive support and links them to other local support agencies and advocates.

The proforma that transition brokers use for reporting student movements is also found in Appendix F, (Sheet 2).

3.2.3 Community agencies

All signatories to the Spirit of Cooperation Agreement have committed to track young people as they move between agencies. Information regarding this movement is also forwarded to the WYC twice per annum via Proforma B in Appendix F, (Sheet 4).

Each agency has responsibility for ensuring that clients move between the agencies agreed to in the clients Action Plan. To facilitate this process in the tracking cycle, Proforma A in Appendix F (Sheet 3) was developed.

Proforma A is forwarded between agencies at the end of each calendar month so that appropriate follow-up with young people can occur.
